How God transforms us

Bill Arnold on February 9, 2018

Everyone wants – and needs – a second chance at life. If we believe that God can truly transform us, how does He do it? And what's our part in the process?

When we desire a life change, it is tempting to focus on modifying our behavior. However, Pastor Adam Weber says our behavior flows from our level of intimacy with our Creator.

"Boundaries and guidelines are important in our life, but real change truly starts with a relationship with Jesus. It's not about sin-management: God didn't send us His only son so we'd be morally-good people, though that's hopefully a byproduct of our following God. It starts with a relationship. The more we grow our love for Him, the more He'll begin to change our hearts, to change our desires from the inside-out."

Adam says the better we know God, the more our own perspective changes in response to His desires for our lives.
